Junior Final Series – Issue 2, August 12th 2018

By MATTHEW DUCK

Today marks Week 2 of Junior Finals, with 26 matches set to play out over three venues. This number of games is an increase to the number played on the equivalent day last year, indicative of wider participation increases seen across the league.

Participation across the WRFL remained fairly consistent from 2013 to 2016, increasing by 132 players over this time. But as the graph below demonstrates, the past two years have seen a marked increase, with a more than 1500 joining the league. And whilst this year's introduction of the inaugural VU WRFL Netball competition has undoubtedly aided in bolstering the league's product offering and building the membership of its respective clubs, netball participation is not included in the below graph – this graph solely reflects football participation.

Clearly much of this growth has come on the back of the rapid expansion of female footy, and when people debate the 'economics' of AFLW, I sometimes think the positive impact AFLW is having on local metro and country competitions gets lost in the discussion. This rapid expansion also better equips clubs and league alike to engage local, State and Federal government in conversations about facility upgrades, which can only be a good thing for our sport.

Whilst the growth we're experiencing is a positive, oftentimes the numbers can mask other challenges. Engaging the 13-17 year age group continues to be one such challenge faced throughout local football, and the WRFL is not immune.

In addition the league's Under 19 competition this year featured only five teams. Clearly these remain critical areas of focus, and significant analysis is being conducted to inform the league as to how to best proceed moving forward.

In the face of this enormous growth, umpiring numbers have remained steady, leading to some challenges in filling regular Sunday appointments. The umpiring administrative team and Association do a fantastic job across both recruitment and retention, and bolstering initiatives aimed at attracting and retaining umpires will remain a key driver of the next WRFL Strategic Plan currently under development.

As a community we must also be better in how we critique umpires. As a colleague of mine recently said, if a parent hurling abuse at an umpire heard similar being directed at their child, they'd be up in arms, and rightfully so. But because it's an umpire they're fair game? That mindset has to change.

I wish all teams competing today the very best of luck, and for the spectators' sake I hope for a sunny, still day! I look forward to seeing you at the footy.

THE SKILLS NEEDED TO BE AT THE TOP OF YOUR GAME

By GRAEME HODGART

To be at the top of your game in any sport there are many things you need to possess. Some that spring to mind are ability, self-motivation, knowledge, discipline, focus, determination, knowledge, commitment, and time management skills. You may be able to think of others. Often opportunity and some luck can also play a hand in the road to success.

To be an effective umpire, whether at the local level or at a higher level, those aspects definitely play a part in the development of one's performance. For many years the WRFL Umpires would sit in their social room at Scovell Reserve and not take much notice of the words that were displayed at the front of the room.

The umpiring body has moved on to Hanmer Reserve and those words are no longer in the eye-line of the umpires: co-operation, control, communication, confidence, commitment, consistency, composure, concentration. They may have been left behind in the move, but they are still important in every game involving WRFL umpires.

Many umpires would not be fully aware of all the aspects that have so far been mentioned in this story, but as individual umpires begin to seriously think about improving their skills and have a desire to umpire at a higher grade or level, then these things begin to be much more important.

Within the WRFL umpiring department there are observers, mentors and experienced umpires who are in the position to impart knowledge, pass on advice and guide the young and upcoming umpires in their quest of developing their ability.

Mark Westgarth, the Director of WRFL Umpiring, has often said, 'we are all coaches.' In other words, all umpires have knowledge and advice that they can pass onto others.

Earlier this year, when a middle aged man decided to give goal umpiring a try, he attended training and joined the group for the warm-up jog, stretches, several skill activities and then the cool down walk and some stretches to finish off the session.

It was during the walk near the end when the coach, who was overseeing the training, saw the newcomer down at the goals having a one-to-one conversation with a young fifteen year old third year goalie discussing and explaining various issues about positioning. Now that is coaching!

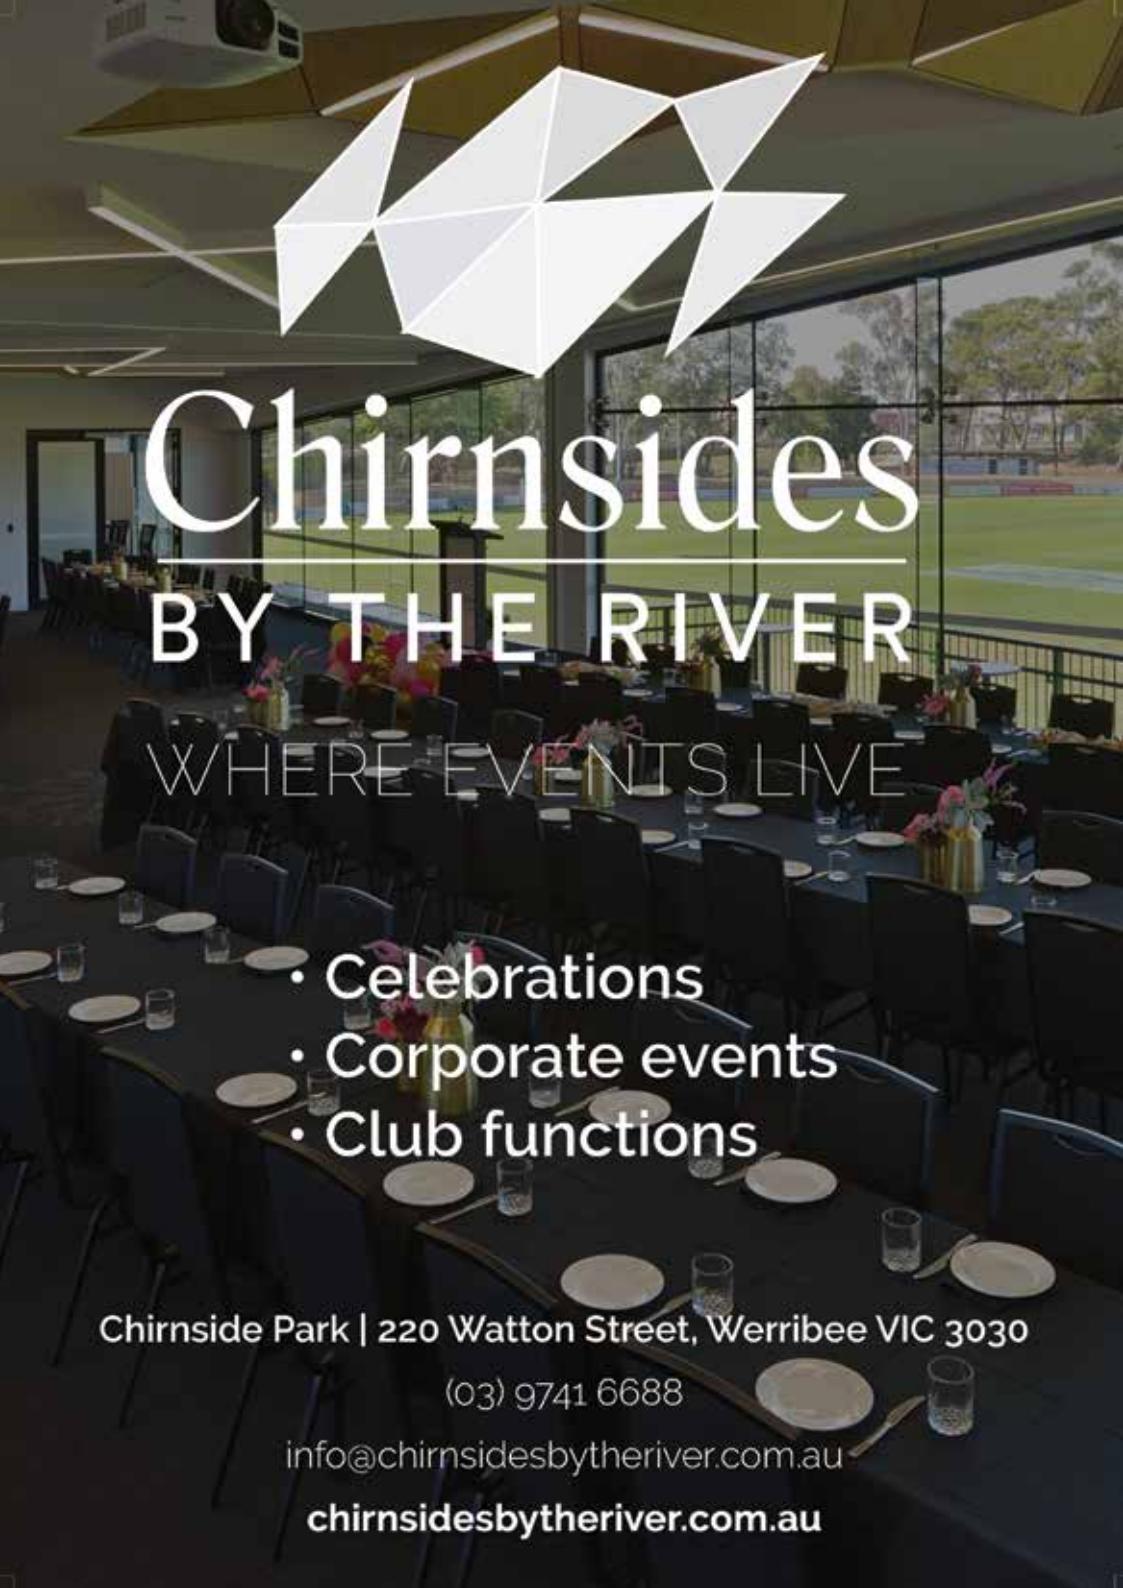

Here's hoping that you have time to appreciate the skills and abilities of the players involved in the game that you are watching today as well as considering the skills and abilities of the umpires.

QUIZ

A player commits a reportable offence in a WRFL game. The umpire immediately reports the player, shows the yellow card and orders the player from the field. The reported player argues with the umpire and refuses to leave the ground. What happens next?

- (a) The player is reported for misconduct.
- (b) The match immediately comes to an end.
- (c) The game is forfeited by the reported player's team.
- (d) All of the above.

The correct answer was (d). See Law 22.3.4.
